

Brexit

There is some speculation that Brexit negotiations may cut off the supply of parallel imports for a while. Therefore Wavedata looked into their database of retail prices to see if any products were only available as imports and thus could be hard to find post Brexit.

3598 brands, which had been sold in the UK during first four months of 2017, were analysed and 749 products were found to be available only parallel imports. An additional 1258 were available as both UK and PI, but the loss of the imported stock could damage supply.

Therefore 21% of brands were only available as parallel imports, 35% were available locally and as imports, making a total of 56% of all brands which could suffer shortages if importation routes were cut off.

Below is the list of products which were seen to be available as imports, but not as UK products:
